Randolph-Henry High School is completing its twenty-fifth year of service to Charlotte County. These fruitful years have resulted from simple beginnings. Lest the importance and meaning of these beginnings be lost, the staff of The Log is recording for you OUR FIRST STEPS in a quarter of a century of progress.

Our First Steps

For a quarter of a century the boys and girls of Charlotte County have entered the halls of Randolph-Henry High School. In September 1939 the eight high schools which were located at widely separated places in the county were consolidated to form a county-wide comprehensive high school.

The idea for consolidation started in 1927 when the State Board of Education recommended to Superintendent R. W. Bobbitt and the Charlotte County Board of Education that one big central high school would serve the county better than a number of small ones. Ten years were spent intalking and planning for a new school but when the Phenix High School building was destroyed by fire in 1937, the Charlotte County School Board decided not to replace the building but to construct a consolidated school building.

The school was built at an approximate cost of $240,000. This was financed by a P.W.A. government grant of approximately $110,000, funds from the county of approximately $105,000 and a gift of $25,000. The building site includes 200 acres of land in the village of Charlotte Court House, Virginia.

Mr. Robert W. Bobbitt, Superintendent of Schools, worked enthusiastically and endlessly to make consolidation a reality in Charlotte County. Without his dream and determination Randolph-Henry could not have been established in 1939.

Mr. Thomas H. Williams Jr., the first principal, was tireless in his efforts to make the opening years smooth and successful. It was he who had the responsibility of proving the superiority of one good comprehensive high school over the many fine smaller schools that had been used in the county previously.

Joward Consolidation

The building of Randolph-Henry High School was dedicated formally on the night of June 10, 1940. Dr. Archibald Shepperson, Professor of English at the University of Virginia, was the speaker. Dr. Shepperson was originally from Charlotte County.

Our First Steps

Early in the fall of 1939 the students were given the privilege of naming the new school by the Charlotte County School Board. The name Randolph-Henry was chosen because both John Randolph and Patrick Henry made their homes in the county and it was here in 1799 that the famous debate took place on "State's Rights". The high school's name is doubly appropriate in view of the fact that it stands as a monument to the combination of Federal and local governments working together for the common good.

Toward Choosing A Name

Our First Steps

The Seal of Randolph-Henry

The nineteen leaves on the left of the seal and the thirty-nine leaves on the right signify the year in which Randolph-Henry became a school. The motto, Ut Serviam (that we may serve), the lamp of learning, and the book of knowledge denote the purpose of the school.

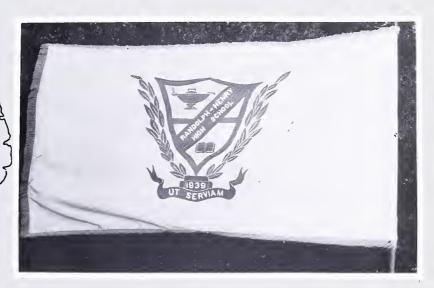

The Randolph-Henry Senior ring was chosen by a committee of representatives from each class in 1940. The ring shows the school building on one shank and Princess Charlotte, wife of George III of England, on the other. The county was given the name of Charlotte by the House of Burgesses in 1765 in honor of Princess Charlotte.

The Athletic Council in 1940 selected royal blue and white as the official school colors and designed the athletic monogram.

RANDOLPH-HENRY SCHOOL SONG
Randolph-Henry sons and daughters we,
Randolph-Henry we will fight for thee,
When the blue and white goes out to fight,
Foes we find we fight with all our might,
For Randolph-Henry sons and daughters we,
Randolph-Henry we will fight for thee,
So let's fight until the final gun
And victory is really won.

The words and music of the school song were written by Mr. Clyde Duval, the first band director.

The Randolph-Henry Flag shows the blue seal on a white background.

In Selecting
Our Emblems and Establishing Traditions

The class of 1940 had the unusual responsibility of selecting a gift for the new and seemingly perfect school. The Charlotte County Historical Pageant which the class presented in place of a play revealed the need of a spotlight. Thus, this spotlight became the first gift to the school by a Senior Class. Since that time each class has sought, through a gift, to leave R-H a little nearer perfect than it was when it entered.

Our First Steps

In September 1939 the boys in vocational agriculture formed a chapter of Future Farmers of America and the girls in Home Economics formed a chapter of Future Homemakers of America.

In October 1940 many other clubs and organizations were formed. These organizations furnished opportunities to all students for practice in and development of leadership as well as help in solving their personal and social problems.

John Lyle served as the first Senior Class president, Anne Jackson as the Junior Class president, Emmette Daniel, Jr. as Sophomore Class president, and Earl Spencer as Freshman Class president.

Baseball and basketball teams were organized during the first year at Randolph-Henry but participation in inter-school activities was restricted the first years due to the wartime rationing of gasoline and automobile tires.

Delta Omicron Psi, the first dramatic club, won the Southside Dramatic Tournament cup in 1940 for its presentation of "My Lady's Lace." The dramatic coach was Mrs. Frances Milton.

"There is one member of the faculty of Randolph
-Henry High School who has played an integral part in the progress of our school since its opening day. She has proved to be an understanding friend, a wise counselor, and an excellent teacher of mathematics. By her selfless devotion to her work as sponsor of the Magazine Campaign throughout the years she has made possible many important contributions to our school. To repay in part our inexpressible debt to her, we, the Seniors of 1961, with deep pride, respect, and admiration, dedicate this volume of 'The Log' to Miss Maude Clay Pugh."

The Cafeteria did not begin serving lunch until the second year and is now a most popular place.

Twenty-five years have brought many changes at Randolph-Henry. Some of the beautiful oak trees are no longer on the front campus but most of the changes have been for the better.

The much needed Field House was provided by the students through the sale of magazines.

The outer office is an attractive reception center as well as a work area.

The Home Economics Cottage did not provide enough space and has been enlarged to twice its original size.

Trophy cases and plaques have been placed in the main corridor to display the numerous awards to Randolph-Henry.

Dedication

In recognition of her accomplishments in developing girls' basketball into a major sport at Randolph-Henry, her enviable record of coaching seven district championship teams and one runner-up team in thirteen years of coaching her sponsorship of the cheerleading squad, her support of and attendance to all R-H athletic events, her excellent work as a class roomteacher, the yearbook staff proudly dedicates the 1964 edition of THE LOG to the COACH OF CHAMPIONS---

AETIVITIES

Bog Staff

Each member of the staff has been most cooperative with the Adviser and Editor in producing this volume of "The Log." The work has been hard and demanding at times, but through out it all the staff has managed to enjoy its work in the friendly and informal atmosphere of Room Six during sixth period.

"The Log"

Due to the extremely high cost of printing during the war years, Randolph-Henry could not afford a yearbook until 1945. Mrs. Elizabeth Priddy and Mrs. Frances Lawson served as advisers for the first volume, and Mary Parham was its Editorin-Chief.

Without the endurance, patience, and ability of Mrs. Lawson, this 1963-64 Log would not have gone to the press.

Features

Susie Hanmer and Harriet Bailey had the responsibility of the Feature Section, and it was their job to decide just who should be featured among the many students who deserved to be recognized for some outstanding achievement. The choice was often a hard one to make, but it was still worse when a picture which could not be remade failed to be usable.

Randy Tucker and Glenn Anderson had more than their share of trouble with the faulty pictures in meeting the deadline for the Sports section, but in spite of all setbacks, their copy came in on time, and they were able to give a complete coverage of Randolph-Henry in the field of sports.

Business Staff

Editors

Beauty and brains can go together as was proved by our Editorial Staff, Rosemarie Walker, Bette Ewing, Marjorie Weston, and Harriet Bailey. These girls spent many hours on layouts, typing copy, division pages, and helping any staff member solve a problem that often seemed impossible. They were never too busy to stop and help anyone, and the trivial question received the same friendly and courteous attention as the more important one.

Activities

Bette Ewing, Activities Editor and her assistants, Larry Trent and John Wynne, learned the hard way that all club reporters did not hand in requested information on the assigned day, and that it might take many trips to get the necessary material for a few lines of copy. They soon profited from experience, and found out that the best way to get a job done was to do it yourself.

No school photographer has an easy time and Baxter Hardinge was no exception. Since Baxter was the only underclassman on the staff, the older members always tried to blame him for any picture that was missing. He soon learned to refuse to take the responsibility of any mistakes other than his own.

A student council was organized at Randolph-Henry in January, 1941, and chose as its name "United Statesmen." Jimmy Tarry served as its first president and Mrs. Lawson as its sponsor. Later this group became affiliated with the Virginia Co-operative Association and began to use the name S.C.A.

"The Statesmen" was first published in December 1939, and appeared monthly for the next two years. The expense of the paper during the war caused it to be discontinued and it wasn't until 1945, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Louisa Jones, that it was published again as a school paper at regular intervals.

The purpose of the paper is to inform the students, faculty, and patrons of Randolph-Henry about all school news.

Spanish was taught for the first time at R-H in 1952 and a Spanish Club was organized during the same year under the sponsorship of Mrs. Irene McNair. The club chose as its motto ''Todas las dias es un nueve principio'' and the chrysanthemum as its flower. Red, gold, and black were selected as its colors.

Martin Milroy won honorary membership in the academy in 1941 because of the engines he made and exhibited. This club was sponsored by Mr. H. C. Wilhelm.

In December, 1946, the Journalism Department published Randolph-Henry's first and only literary magazine "The Patriots." The department recognized the need of such a magazine to stimulate interest in creative writing, but the venture was short-lived due to lack of financial support. The Literary Club was organized in October, 1963, to promote forensics, especially creative writing.
